

Become a Volunteer Artist at artWORKS

At artWORKS, we encourage teens to express themselves through silk screening, graphic design, print design, photography, studio recording, video editing, graffiti art, spoken word/poetry and other visual and performing arts. We creatively engage local youth to help improve their academic performance, deepen cultural awareness, develop positive social skills, and learn creative pursuits that matter in school as well as the real world.

We strive to provide positive alternatives to destructive behavior for the regions most at-risk teens, as well as engage any middle or high school student with a passion for the arts.

artWORKS is a collaboration of Learning Works Charter School & Armory Center for the Arts. As a recently formed partnership, we have no significant funding streams. We are blessed, however, to have a newly renovated, donated space. In addition, our collaborating organizations are working diligently to provide free programming at artWORKS with volunteers and donated supplies.

As a result, we are looking for volunteers to assist, teach and create classes. If you have an idea for a class, please let us know! Call us at 626-793-9202.

Classes are offered in three trimesters and a summer session each year. We examine new courses and event proposals prior to creating trimester and summer schedules. Proposals are due one month prior to the beginning of each trimester. Trimester dates can be found on the class schedules.

It is our plan to one day secure funding so that we are able to pay artists, buy supplies, and expand programming. We are extremely optimistic about the future of the center, so please stay in touch, stop by artWORKS, and dream up youth centered creative ideas. Let us know your thoughts!!
